Johannes Vogel

Director General
Museum für Naturkunde, Berlin

Director General of the Museum für Naturkunde, Berlin, one of the world's greatest scientific and cultural institutions. Professor of Biodiversity and Public Science at the Humboldt-Universität, Berlin (HU). Task: Leadership of the Museum für Naturkunde, Berlin. Science & science policy advisory work at national and international level. Skills and interests include developing people, developing dynamic, adaptive, entrepreneurial scientific organisations, creating and sustaining robust knowledge communities and public engagement with science. Research interests and track records: Role of museums in science and society; public engagement with science; citizen science; national and international science policy; biodiversity; plant evolutionary biology. Key personal drivers are team work, stewardship of the natural world, public service, democracy and innovation.